

Fifty-two children (aged 11 to 17) spent two days discussing the report and recommendations, with a further morning sharing their views with representatives of the army, police, education department, UNICEF, Save the Children and Knowing Children.